DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 6,721,568 B1 to Gustavsson et al. (“Gustavsson”).

As to claim 1, a radio resource control unit is shown in figure 1 as controller 12 which is presented in greater detail in figure 3. As such, an air interface measurement unit for obtaining air interface measurements and a processing unit for processing said air interface measurements to provide an output are shown as data processor 50. A storage unit for storing said air interface measurements is shown as admission memory 52 also shown in greater detail in figure 4. In particular, admission memory 52 shows measured parameters (i.e., P1-Pn) which contain both actual measurements V1-Vn and predicted measurements V1-Vn and Vp1-Vpn. Examiner notes a reasonable but broad interpretation of predicted measurements in view of applicant’s specification and in particular applicant’s specification on page 6, paragraph 0029 which discloses that predicted measurements relate to the CAC algorithm such as interference and power. As such, Gustavsson discloses that measured values V1-Vn relate to CAC measurements since they include uplink interference received at a radio base station and/or downlink power sent by the radio base station, see e.g., column 4, lines 44-67. Furthermore, V_{p1} - V_{pn} are considered predicted measurements since the effect on a requested radio resource or recently allocated or de-allocated radio resource will likely have on the measurement value of the radio-related parameter is estimated or predicted, see e.g., column 5, line 62 – column 6, line 30 and column 3, lines 7-20.

As to claim 2, see rejection for claim 1 where V_1 - V_n are also actual measured values.

As to claim 3, the actual and predicted values are combined to see if the call should be allocated or de-allocated, see e.g., column 2, lines 55-59 and column 7, lines 17-28. Also see e.g., column 2, lines 55-59.

As to claim 4, the time-stamp is shown in figure 4 as either T_1 - T_n or T_{p1} - T_{pn} , see e.g., columns 5-6.

As to claim 5, see combined rejections for claims 1 and 4.

As to claims 6-7, the controller checks the aging of the parameter to see if the parameter is still valid, see e.g., column 6, lines 31-55.

As to claim 8, “old” predicted values are removed, overwritten, or ignored teaching a broad but reasonable interpretation of a validity indicator, see e.g., column 3, lines 7-20; column 6, lines 31-55; and column 7, lines 38-44.

As to claim 9, the measurement reports are considered baseline data and thus are a reasonable but broad interpretation of a default value, see e.g., column 3, lines 1-5.

As to claim 10, see similar rejection to claim 3.
